

THE CRAB AND JACKAL

INSTRUCTIVE STORIES FROM
NITI SHASTRA

There was a very nice and beautiful river bank

There lived a crab with his small baby crab

One day small baby crab asked her father....

Daddy, can I go to near by jungle alone ?

My child, you are now very small so you should not move around alone, understood ?

Ok, daddy, do not worry,
I will do whatever you say

Inspite of the instructions given, the baby crab went into the jungle alone

The baby crab was moving all around happily on the green grass

Suddenly a Jackal arrived there

Since when I was feeling hungry and look at this my food is coming straight to me

Yes, kill me, I deserve this, I did not listen to my daddy

Before the baby crab could speak something more, it was dead.

MORAL :

Whatever our parents tell us is for our good, we must listen to them
